

The Fuse Condos

WILLIAM CONWAY/PROGRESS PHOTOGRAPHY

Construction is progressing on the Fuse Condominiums in Toronto, Ont. The developer is Fuse Development Corp. and the construction manager is TMG Builders Inc. The project includes one 27-storey tower built behind the original warehouse that will have a Food Basics grocery store and a Shopper's Drug Mart and one 23-storey tower with a bank branch. There will be approximately 580 units in total and two levels of underground parking in each tower. The third floor will have a wellness gym, yoga studio, lounge/library, a theatre, and an event room with an outdoor terrace. The project was designed by Barrett Architects Inc. and consultants are Jablonsky Ast & Partners (structural) and CSEI Comfort Solutions (mech/elec). Subtrades include: JMS Forming Ltd.; RES Precast Inc.; Cam-poli Electric Ltd.; Associated Mechanical Trades Inc. and Aluminum Window Designs Ltd.
